In Delieve that the Chinese who have been fighting in Korea have not attended to supply men, and even if more wandown and the the Soviets would not enter the Korean war to save China. The supply men, and even if more manpower were needed by the Chinese that the Eoviets would not enter the read war to save China. The supply men, and even if more manpower were needed by the Chinese have have so the supply men. The same the soviets would not show their best weapons over enemy territory. This was demonstrated by the fact that the KDI's were used in Korea. If the Soviets had not had a superior airplane they would never have allowed the KIG's to the supply of the same proved recently soviet Aviation Day! In Moscow when two new supersonic planes was proved recently are the more manpower were not guite the korean war because they have not even used tanks as yet. I know that the Chinese have tank troops because I saw hundreds of them being trained in Kiev in 1938. At that time the Soviets would not enter the Korean war to save China. would not care enough about saving China to risk the loss of Soviet manpower.

The US has been caught in the Soviet political trap in Korea, and in their military trap, but as yet they have managed to stay out of the air trap. I believe that the Soviets were hoping that the UN forces in Korea would bomb Manchuria, and that they were even subtly encouraging them to do so. It would have been a perfect setup for them if US bombers had flown into Manchuria because the Soviets could then have put their new supersonic planes into action without allowing them to be observed over "enemy" territory. They might have knocked out the US attack planes over Manchuria, and this would have been a twofold victory for them. For one thing it would have shown that US planes were not capable of fulfilling their mission in Manchuria, thus making US airpower inferior to that of the Soviets, and secondly, US planes downed over Manchuria would have been ample and concrete proof to Communists throughout the world that the US was the aggressor. This, I believe, was the way the Soviets had planned their air trap, and the UN forces were clever enough to stay out of it.
